

J. Overton

J. Overton has more than 10 years experience in military public affairs. He is currently the Internal Relations Manager for Navy Region Northwest, an adjunct instructor for the Marine Corps Command and Staff College, and a liaison officer for the Naval War College. J. volunteers with the American Red Cross and with Washington State's Civil War Read-in Project. He has also been an Army historian, served in the U.S. Coast Guard, and taught English in Japan.

J. has a Master of Arts degree in National Security and Strategic Studies from the Naval War College, a Bachelor of Science in History from Northern Arizona University, and a graduate certificate in Corporate Strategy. He has also completed Executive Education in Social Media and Strategic Communications from the University of Washington and the Naval Postgraduate School.

J. has presented papers at the Naval Academy's Naval History Symposium and NASA's Social Media for Government Communicators Conference, and published articles and book reviews in The Journal of Military History, the Mexican War Journal, Parameters, Futures Research Quarterly, Columbia Magazine, Military History magazine, the Journal of the West, Pacific Northwest Quarterly, and Army History, and wrote three entries for the Encyclopedia of Media and Propaganda in Wartime America. He has given talks on the 1857 Beale Camel Expedition for the National Park and Forest Services.

A native of Knoxville, Tennessee, J. now lives in Port Orchard , Washington.